

Campus Sketches

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER

"Swell the old Xaverian chorus, Let the old song ring . . ."
"Leading, trailing, vim untailing, Play the game . . ."

It is reported that when John Archie MacDonald, a farmer from out the road visited "St. F. X." a few years ago, making a tour of the campus, he explained, "What do I think of it? Tain't big, tain't small, just middlin'." And although he didn't realize it, he probably gave the best description of it yet, because it is just that. It is not so big as to lose that genuine, personal interest among students and in student-faculty relations which is in itself a vital factor of college life, but it definitely is not small, considering its amazing development, especially during the last three decades.

When you leave the highway, just before it takes an S turn down through the town, and go up the gravelled University drive, the first thing that catches your eye is Morrison Hall at the very end. Built during the Fall and Winter of 1937-38, it is the newest and most attractive of all the dozen or so buildings on the campus, and houses among other things, the Infirmary, the Faculty Residence, University Dining Hall, Students' Lounge, the Post Office, and the Student Co-op Store.

Forming a semi-circle on one side of the drive are Mocker Hall, four-story Men's residence, the Library, the Chapel, McKinnon Residence Hall, and the Administrative Building containing offices, the Assembly Hall, Study Hall, rooms, and three dormitories — Gardens, Middle, and Broadwae.

On the other side of the drive are the Tennis Courts, the Gymnasium, Memorial Rink, erected in memory of St. F. X. men who fought and died in the World War, and the Heating and Power Plant.

Forming a T with University Drive and directly behind Morrison is Cemetery Lane which leads up to Bishop's Bowl, the Football field. Across the Lane is the MacNell Science Hall which houses Chemistry and Physics Labs, the Auditorium, and classrooms. Further over are Gilmora and Immaculata Halls of Mount St. Bernard (Ladies) College.

Probably one of the most noted features of St. F. X. is its Extension Department, conducted by tall, dark-haired Dr. M. M. Coady. With offices and reading room in the Administrative Building, the Extension Department has fostered Adult Education since its inception in 1930 and is the Maritime focal point for consumers' Co-operation, a steadily gaining movement which justly claims to have done wonders in raising the level of the farmer, the miner, and the fisherman in Eastern Canada.

And there, you have a Thumbnail sketch of St. Francis Xavier University, a university which "ain't big, ain't small; just middlin'".

SKIING INSTRUCTION

Skating instruction for beginners and non-expert skiers is being held in the B. W. & F. room Mondays, 5.15 to 6.15 p.m. Mr. Fred Urdahart has been secured to give the instruction. Here is an excellent opportunity to get a jump on the weather as a considerable amount of skating technique can be acquired as well indoors as on the snow covered slopes.

Around the Globe

United States Seek Peace.

President Roosevelt has himself taken over the negotiations with the Japanese envoys Nomura and Kurusu in an attempt to secure peace, or at least a breathing-space in the Pacific. The burden of the talks, at which Secretary of State Cordell Hull was also present, was not revealed. China is known to be definitely opposed to this appeasement policy.

Japan Bids for War.

Japanese troops in ever-increasing numbers are turning up in Indo-China, ready for an attack on Thai or Burma. Vast stores of supplies and of munitions are being moved in by way of Saigon; both the United States and Britain have warned they are prepared to act.

Libya Is Battlefield.

The Axis forces in North Africa are on the verge of extinction. The great tank battle at Rezegh has turned in favour of the British, and though their armies are still formidable, the Germans are virtually defeated.

Tomorrow Is Deadline Set For Pictures

Editors Issue
Last Call for Biographies

Tomorrow is the last day for graduating students to have their pictures taken for "Old McGill '42"; it is also the final date on which biography forms may be handed in. This deadline, according to the Editor-in-Chief of the Annual, will be strictly kept this year.

Response to the request that photographs be taken early has been very good: out of over five hundred graduating students, only sixty have not yet had their pictures taken. These stragglers are urged by the Editorial Board to make their way to Jacoby Studios immediately, in order that their portraits may appear in the Annual. Photos will be taken today and tomorrow, without appointment, during business hours.

Biography forms were issued over a month ago to all members of the graduating class. These are equally as important as the photographs, and should be made as interesting and original as possible, stated the Biography Editor. A month's time should be enough, he said, for any one to dig up the most lurid of past histories.

Appropriate quotations for these biographies, often the stumbling-block impeding their completion, can generally be found by referring to past issues of the Annual, or to Bartlett's "Book of Familiar Quotations." If no quotation can be found, however, the Editorial Board will furnish one with joy. Even such incomplete biographies must be in by tomorrow however; for the Board states that with the example of the "Forge" before them, they intend to make this a record-breaking year of unbroken dead-lines.

December 15 has been set as a dead-line for the first of the contests for contributions to the "Campus Life" section of the Annual, and photographs of all college activities are now being received. A special request has been made for pictures taken on the Salvage Drives, of the Mile of Pennies, or during Freshman Reception. Any such snapshots should be handed to Fred Paine, the Photography Editor, or left for him at the Tuck Shop. Paine stresses the fact that, in order to make this section as amusing as it was last year, as many photographs as possible will have to be contributed.

French Society Meeting Features Student Skits

La Societe Francaise held their second meeting of the year yesterday afternoon in the Common Room at R.V.C. Rosette Renshaw, the President, was in the chair. Each of the four years presented skits, which were excerpts from famous French plays, and they were judged by the faculty members of the French Department. The first prize was awarded to the second year students, who put on "L'Amour Medecin," under the leadership of Louise Skutesky. The prizes awarded were War Savings Stamps.

McGill's War Effort Is To Be Heard on Radio

'Carry On, Canada' Will Stress Students' Work

This Sunday at 8.30 p.m. the story of McGill's War Effort will be broadcast over the "Carry On, Canada" radio program over station C.B.M. on a coast-to-coast net work. The three Salvage Drives conducted by the students will form the main theme of the program, but attention will also be given to the various other aspects of the University's effort. Students will do all the acting in the skits depicting our various achievements and a combined choir chosen from the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs will sing on the program.

At least twenty minutes of this half-hour program will be devoted to setting forth the students' past and contemplated war activities. Skits dramatizing the various aspects of the University's war effort, will occupy the majority of the time. The English Department is supplying students who are going to do all the dramatic work on these skits.

Stress will be placed on the three Salvage Drives since these, in the opinion of Mr. William Strange, famed Canadian author and manager of the program's script, constitute the most important part of McGill's War efforts.

The program will also tell about the several other student activities being put forth. Projects which will receive mention are the McGill Blood Donors Registration Centre, Research Volunteer Registration, the Volunteer Reserve Registration, and the Mile of Pennies Drive.

Both McGill Glee Clubs are also taking active part on this program. A double quartet will start the program with the singing of "Carry On, Canada," while a specially chosen combined choir will sing "Hail Alma Mater" during the course of the half-hour.

Weakness of Europe Bared

Dr. Odolizik
Traces European
Events from 1918

Inability to work to a common end, and a lack of understanding and sympathy for the other's point of view, were the reasons for the present condition of Central Europe, as set forth by Professor Odolizik of Charles University, Prague, in his discussion of that region since 1918. Dr. Odolizik spoke to an open lecture audience in Moyle Hall yesterday in the morning.

The treatment of the subject was divided on the questions of whether it had been expedient to dissolve the decadent but traditional Austro-Hungarian Monarchy, and if it would not be better to restore or replace it.

In answer to the first question Prof. Odolizik stated that the Austro-Hungarian Empire was already in a process of disintegration, owing to the unwillingness of the ruling classes to allow complete equality of the component elements of the state. In this connection he quoted the Czechish historian Paladski, "Nature knows no dominant or subjugated nation." Such was the

Professor Speaks
On the Stiffing
Of Knowledge

The Men's and R.V.C. Historical Clubs held a joint banquet in the Sherbrooke Cafeteria yesterday evening in honor of Professor Odolizik. Professor Adair spoke a few words of introduction and then called on Eric Hutchison to introduce the speaker.

Professor Odolizik spoke on "Cleo in Chains." History in Czechoslovakia has been a great unifying force. Their history has been a great comfort to the Czechs in times of despair and defeat, he stated.

The Professor then gave some of his recollections of 1938 and 1939. After Munich, the Czechs did not visualize the final disaster of March, 1939. The German propagandists did their best to encourage this false optimism, whilst the intellectual class tried to discount its effects.

Professor Odolizik left the country in June 1939. For the first few months the Germans tried to create the impression of Czech willingness to their rule, and allowed a certain amount of intellectual freedom. In Oct. 1939 this was no longer necessary so Hitler clamped down on the Czechs, arresting numerous students and thus closing universities on the pretext of demonstrations. No books are now published about recent events in Czechoslovakia. Professor Odolizik then answered the questions asked by the members.

Cosmo Hears I.L.O. Official

Peace Impossible
Without Social Justice Is Theme

At the Cosmopolitan Club meeting last night, Dr. Pierre Waelbroeck, Chief Employment and Migration section of the International Labour Office gave a report on the recent conference in New York City.

Dr. Waelbroeck traced the development of and outlined the main principles and work of the I.L.O. The fundamental idea of the I.L.O., he said, was that there can be no peace in the world when a group of people is living under miserable conditions; and he quoted the preamble of its constitution to that effect.

Under our present system of capitalist production, of supply and demand, industrialists, he stated, are continually on the lookout for cheaper means of production so as to get ahead of their competitors. This naturally has an ill-effect upon the living standards of the working class unless they can protect themselves.

Dr. Waelbroeck emphasized that this was not a local but an international affair: should a government improve the social conditions of its country by increasing the cost of production it would place that country at a great disadvantage in the international market. The only means by which social progress can be achieved is through international co-operation. The I.L.O. has been and is the only organization, recognized and supported by the governments of the world.

Dr. Waelbroeck stated that the only reason for the I.L.O.'s continued and useful existence is the fact that it is a democratic institution. The executive consists of sixteen government representatives, eight manufacturers' representatives, and eight of the workers. The delegates to the conference were represented in the same proportion.

First McGill Blood Donors Made Contributions Yesterday

Four final-year medical students presented themselves yesterday at the Red Cross Clinic on Bishop Street, as the first McGill students to give their blood. They were Charles Pick, Steward Reid, Herb Owen, and Fred Davies.

The experiences of the donors were as follows: they were ushered into 1428 Bishop St. by an attendant in a white coat, who divested them of their hats and coats; then they proceeded upstairs, where they registered and had their temperature and weight taken. After that a doctor wrote down a short case history of each donor, taking note of childhood diseases, etc.

Following this, they were conducted downstairs into a room

Sir F. Bowhill Is Visitor at Douglas Hall

Ferry Command
Head Addresses
Men Residents

"People are becoming more and more air-minded," stated Air Chief Marshal Sir Frederick Bowhill, chief of the R.A.F. Ferry Command, in his visit to McGill last night, when he addressed the residents of Douglas Hall in an informal gathering.

In his address, the Air Marshal made a comparison between the Air-Force of today and the Air-Force as it was previous to this war. He then traced the present R.A.F. right back to the Royal Flying Corps of 1912.

Sir Frederick stated that just as the sailors of today want to fight as well as to work their own ships, so too the airmen want to fight and work their own planes. In the past, he said the sailors only worked the ships, and soldiers were trained to do the fighting in them.

TELLS OF FERRY COMMAND

Sir Frederick continued to tell of some of the work now being done by the R.A.F. Ferry Command. He said that not only does the Command have to fly planes to the British Isles but also has to fly some over to the Middle East.

The Air Marshal then gave a short description of the present make-up of the R.A.F. It was divided, he said, into several different commands. The Fighter Command is in charge of the Balloon Command and the Observer Corps. In telling of the Coastal Command, the Air Marshal related the great role it played in tracing down the Bismarck. He also spoke of the Army Co-operation Command and of the Bomber Command.

After this talk the Air Marshal answered several questions. Other persons present at the meeting were Lady Bowhill and several members of the staff.

Coldwell Visions 'Finer' England

M. P. Returns
To Laud Courage
Of Common People

Speaking last night upon his return from a trip undertaken by a group of Members of Parliament to England, M. J. Coldwell lauded the courage and determination being shown by the common people of England and called upon Canadians to build a Canada in which the men and women of future generations may find peace and security.

"The day will come," said Coldwell, leader of the C.C.F. Party, as he concluded an account of the spirit which he found prevalent in England today, "when the English common people will build a better and finer England. Shall we at that time be prepared to build a better Canada?"

Stressing the necessity of relying upon collective strength in the post-war world, Mr. Coldwell urged

Arts Society to Debate Cutdown of Social Events

The Arts and Science Debating Society will hold its initial debate next Tuesday afternoon at 3.30 in Room 84 of the Arts Building. The topic under discussion will be "Resolved: That Social Activities at McGill Should be Curtailed as a Means Toward Greater Contribution to the War Effort."

The purpose of this debate is to discover the two best debaters in each class, and then the best class team in the Faculty. The reward is the Arts Shield. Anyone from Arts and Science who wishes to enter this debate is asked to phone Winston Mahabir at PL 1156.

Sum of War Effort Grows

International Student Aid
Is Debated

The Inner War Council held its regular Thursday meeting last night to discuss the advance of the War Effort. The various drives were reviewed, and the International Student Service was considered.

The I.S.S. is an organization designed to supply the intellectual and cultural needs of war-beset students. Patronization during their University training for refugees, "friendly aliens," and prisoners of war is thereby to be secured. A committee with T. C. Mulligan as its prospective Chairman was voted.

The Blood Donors Drive reported that some 650 had already enrolled and that the drive would be continued in the M.R.T.B., the C.O.T.C., and the Air Force Wing.

The committee for Volunteer Registration stated that the results have so far been unsatisfactory, the only notable returns being from the School for Graduate Nurses which has registered one hundred per cent. This too will be continued, through the club representatives to the Council.

The War Savings Stamps campaign is progressing at a steady rate, and is to continue doing so. In February, however the drive will be intensified.

Also discussed were another salvage campaign, to be left to the discretion of the Salvage Committee, the Broadcast on Sunday, Nov. 30th, and the International Debate. It was further mentioned that Mr. Wm. Strange, the writer of "Carry On, Canada," is to address the students of McGill next week.

Moseley Talks To Pre-Meds

Gives Advice on Advantages of Pre-Med Years

"The Attitude toward Medicine of Medical and Pre-Medical Students" was the topic of the address given by Dr. H. F. Moseley, guest speaker at the bi-weekly meeting of the Pre-Medical Society, held yesterday afternoon in the Union Grill Room.

Dr. Moseley discussed the problems confronting pre-medical students and the benefits to be derived from their pre-med years. These should be years of preparation and of opportunities for experience, stated Dr. Moseley. These students should make good choice of friends, seek ideas and inspirations, and learn to think and to discriminate. Hobbies should be acquired and continued all through life, and histories and biographies should be studied.

Dr. Moseley, general and orthopedic surgeon at the Royal Victoria Hospital, concluded his address by saying, "You should find out what you want to do, and the longer and better you train yourself, the further you will ultimately go. Train until you cannot train anymore, and remain a student at all times."

2nd Year Medical Students Will attend 2nd Year Medical Students who expect to receive their B.A. or B.Sc. degrees this year please communicate with Miss Mudge or leave a note at the Union for the Annual IMMEDIATELY.

NYU Triumphs Against McGill in Debating Issue Of U.S. Entry Into War

Request of Financial Aid
For Meds Sent to King

The petition circulated yesterday asking Government loans for needy Medical students was sent to Premier King today.

The establishment of a $43,000 loan fund was requested for students in financial straits who otherwise would be unable to finish their course. The lengthening of the academic year and the curtailment of summer earning power are the prime causes for this need of financial help.

From the results of a survey made this fall, it was estimated that 156 students required assistance to continue their College training. E. B. Campbell, Fifth year representative of the Local Chapter of the Canadian Association of Medical Students and Internes, stated that the petition had been ratified Wednesday by 101 out of 105 students.

Club President
To Give Short
Talk, Display

The stamp and coin club will hold the first general meeting of its existence at 8 o'clock this evening in the Music Room of the Union. A varied program of mainly Philatelic interest will be offered, and the highlight of the evening will be the Chinese Auction, in which several rare old stamps, and also some War Savings stamps, will be sold for the benefit of the war fund.

The meeting will open with a ten minute talk and display of some of the commemorative stamps of the U.S.A., offered by the President of the club, followed by the ratification of the constitution and the election of the executive.

Once this business has been dealt with, the auction will start. The first item to be auctioned will be a cumulative War savings stamp. This stamp, which has been given by a member of the committee in charge of the McGill War Savings Campaign, will be sold by the Chinese system whereby every bid pays, and the person who finally acquires the stamp will have as

by adam

Having just partaken in the eighteenth annual Football banquet, your observer must remark, with a bit of condescendence, that it is an about face in trying to write a column after listening to the humorous remarks emitted by the various speakers. However the festivity closed the football season at McGill, and wound up a highly successful season. Yet it seemed rather odd that some of the guests present strove to point out that it was not to their liking to see Intercollegiate sports discontinued, when McGill voted for the discontinuance of such last June. This somehow may be challenged by the fact that opinions have changed obviously since that Intercollegiate gathering last spring.

It is clear that the present system will have to go on despite the feelings of a great many to the contrary, although it is quite apparent that there is something screwy about the whole business, and that enthusiasm is gradually waning there can be no doubt. Perhaps matters can be adjusted so this stagnant situation can be remedied, and the next meeting of the various Universities should provide a more clear sighted policy.

Meanwhile the newly formed basketball league is making steady progress with the Independents again running the other teams ragged. The cry of break up the Yankees can be applied to the Independents who seem to come up with some dazzling performers. The way things were organized this year, the good players were supposed to be more evenly distributed, but it looks like the same situation as last year.

In the hockey front things are running smoothly with the various teams working out at the Forum daily in preparation for next week's inauguration of the league. Coach Farquharson has the teams rounding into shape, and keen competition should be forthcoming. The practice hours seems rather awkward as it spoils a player's lunch, but it is the best the Forum can do.

We can not close this column without giving mention to the Canadian Gridiron Classic this Saturday between the Ottawa Rough Riders and the Winnipeg Blue Bombers. No doubt many a student's ear will be glued to the radio for Roy Dilworth's play-by-play account of the contest. We shall go out on the limb by picking the Riders, although the margin is very close.

Independents 1 Trim C.O.T.C. in Cage Match

Two games were played on the basketball courts last night, one a regular league fixture, and the other an exhibition tilt between Independents 1 and 4. In the league match Independents 3 walked over C.O.T.C. to the tune of 37-9. For the winners Delbel, Minton and Mumford were the big guns, each garnering 8 points. For the losers Webster was outstanding, ramming in 5 points. Delbel, playing guard, worked well on the offence as he scored 4 free shots and 2 field attempts. Mumford was sharp under the basket, and Minton a sure shot from close in. In the other match, Independents 4 trimmed the number 1 Independents 20-18 in a see-saw battle. Bert Holdredge was high scorer for victors with 10 points, while Robinson scored 6 for the losers.

The teams: C.O.T.C. — Ralph, Webster, Hampson, Rudolph, Farquhar, and Gillespie. Ind. 3—Jones, Delbel, Minton, Thomas, Johnston, Lewis, Mumford and Verron. Ind. 4 — Wilson, Amperis, Walker, Holdredge, Leonard, Mahon and L'Esperance. Ind. 1—West, Robinson, Davis, Neish Stuart and Morrison.

Grid Stars Make Merry At Banquet

McGill Football Club Holds Annual Meeting

The McGill Football Club completed an end run around their 18th annual football banquet last night to climax their second successful intramural season. Approximately 50 players turned out to feast and drink at the Union Cafeteria where reminiscences of the past season and earlier years was the order of the day.

After the players successfully completed their last end run of the season around a full course dinner, Dr. Lamb opened the short speeches with an explanation of the intercollegiate situation, as it stood this year, and pointed that despite the unfortunate conditions caused by the continued suspension of intercollegiate sports, nevertheless, more players were getting a chance to play competitive sports under the present plan.

PLAYERS HEAR DR. TEES Dr. Lamb then introduced the honorary president of the McGill Football Club, Dr. F. J. Tees who told the assembled players of the early days at McGill before the advent of intercollegiate sports in 1899. Dr. Tees then went on to express his regret that it was impossible to hold intercollegiate competition this year.

Coach Doug Kerr then congratulated the players on their games this year, congratulating the victorious Army gridders and offering his condolences to the hard hitting Navy squad. Following Doug Kerr's short talk the coaches of the three McGill teams pointed out the abilities of their various teams, after receiving silver loving cups from the members of their teams, as tokens of appreciation for the hard work they put into the task of rounding out three crack grid squads from McGill this year.

CAPTAINS PRESENT CUPS The championship Army team were given the seats of honor followed by the hard fighting second place Navy squad. In presenting the cups to their respective coaches Captains Earl Smith, "Rick" Read, and Jack Keay of the Army, Navy and Air Force respectively made short speeches expressing the gratitude of the teams to the time put in by their various mentors.

In concluding the banquet Chairman T. L. Chown relinquished his post as head manager of the football team in favour of J. M. McKee who will take over the duties of manager of the club on the first of January.

Last night's banquet was a fitting climax to a successful season and demonstrated the team spirit of the three intramural teams and of the assembled club as a whole. This college spirit which gives way to team spirit while the intramural teams are on the gridiron was well expressed by Trainer Harry Grimes during the course of the banquet.

While Mr. Hay Finlay, speaking as athletics manager, pointed out that in all probability intercollegiate sports would not return to the college gridiron during the playing time of any of the assembled players, nevertheless, the system which was being carried on at present at McGill would pave the way to many more hard fighting Red teams in the future.

Outing Club Plans Skiing Activities at First Meeting

Mr. H. Smith Johannsen Gives Talk on Skiing as a Body Building, Healthy Sport

A large crowd of McGill out-door fans attended this year's first meeting of the Outing Club in the Union ball room last night. Over 150 enthusiastic skiers (and skiers-to-be), were present to hear such experts as Mr. Smith Johannsen extol the pleasures of skiing and the health giving capacities of life in the open air.

Reed Hyde, president of the club, opened the meeting by a few words of welcome, and also introduced the secretary, Joan Anderson, who read the minutes of the last meeting. Jack Bailey, treasurer, juggled with dollars for a few minutes and gave all those present a rapid view of the club's financial status. He was followed by Reed Hyde who in a few words sketched the histories of the club.

The second Co-ed Intersection badminton tournament was run off last night, with section A3 coming out on top, followed by A1, A3's team, consisting of Nora Young, Lois Alexander, Jean Watson and Dixie Andrews, won 10 points out of a possible 12. Section A1 gained 9 points, A2, 6 points and C 5 points. Section B3's representatives failed to turn up, and consequently defaulted all their matches.

Betsy Farris, of A1, was the singles star of the evening, being the only player to win all her games. The doubles team of Watson and Andrews also won every match played.

The intersection round robin will be completed within the next two weeks. The tournaments are bringing out a fine brand of badminton, and sparks should really fly when the freshies, who are particularly strong this year, meet the up-perclass stars in the next series of matches.

Volleyball League to Commence in M.R.T.B.

An Intercompany Volleyball league is now being formed at McGill, and for the past week or two the Sports Representatives have been canvassing their respective Companies and Platoons for players. From advance reports that are coming in it looks as if every Platoon in the M.R.T.B. will be entering a team.

Jim McKee, Sports Representative for A Company, has entered the first team, entirely composed of fellows from Platoon No. 2. The manager of this team is Rossy, and the players will be Triggs, Wotter, McKee, Capper, Rutledge, Manson, MacIntosh, Wilson, and Winter. The other four Platoons are also organizing teams in A Company stated Manager McKee.

The other managers in this league are T. L. Davies for C Coy., G. Hawker for D Coy., R. Freeman for E Coy., W. Parkinson for F Coy., E. Walter for G Coy., whilst H. Graves manages the Independents and T. L. Chown is in charge of the C.O.T.C. aggregation.

McDonald College under the management of R. A. Chapman has already two teams fully organized, and Flt. Sgt. F. Horton of the R.C.A.F. Detachment is planning to have six teams in the Volleyball league, one representing each of the six flights stationed here.

In order that the schedule can get under way by the end of this week, it is important that every Sports Representative hand in the complete line-ups as soon as possible at the Athletics Office. All Volleyball games are to be played on Mondays and Wednesdays from 5.15 to 6.00 and from 6.00 to 6.45. A Schedule which will be handy for future reference will be published in the near future.

and the least expensive extra-curricular activities that you can.

There is also the question of financial contributions towards the war effort resulting from profits on social activities. The students have long clamored for the government to support university education with scholarships. An excellent opportunity now presents itself to establish this in a small way. Profits from Society activities, Mile of Pennies returns, and other suitable financial efforts could be invested in war bonds, the interest on which to be turned over to the University for scholarships. These scholarships could be given in memory of the McGill men who have sacrificed themselves in this war.

We believe that if well considered positive efforts are planned there will be no need for such negative efforts as cutting down the time a student devotes to campus social activities, especially as this will have no effect on the total amount of time that he will continue to spend on his social life.

Yours sincerely,
JAMES A. F. STEVENSON,
Editor in Chief.

Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—I regret to have been the cause of the unpardonable error which appeared in yesterday's issue of the Daily in connection with the Philosophy Discussion Group of the S.C.M. To be ostracized by the ostracized students of philosophy is quite bearable, but to have the shades of Descartes haunt me, and to cause the angry Berkeley to turn in his episcopal grave, is more than I can endure. To them, therefore, and to all the rest who have been involved, I tender my sincerest apologies. All except the faulty Latin, was my fault, my own grievous fault.

Sincerely,
JOHN KAREFA SMART.

then treated to a few films about the technique of skiing. One of the films featuring Mr. Johansen in some Laurentian scenes was particularly applauded.

The meeting was followed by a little informal dancing in the Grill Room, following which everyone left in the best of mood.

Weakness of Europe Bared

condition of the nation that even in 1874 its doom seemed sealed; thus it was not necessary to dissolve the Union.

As for restoration, the alternatives were either a revival of the old monarchy, or a system of co-operation between free states. For the first there were many supporters; the Hungarian nobility especially, the older people with their memories of a prouder day were of the reactionary, while in Austria Pan-Germanism was largely favoured. Progressives held for the latter suggestion, urging some sort of alliance among the Danubian Powers; but the work of consolidation in the new countries, and the bad feeling prevalent in Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria, prevented a stable arrangement. The Little and Balkan Ententes were formed, however, the inherent weakness of each being that they were not mutual defence pacts. The whole of Central Europe was endangered by the complacency of some of its states. And, as if that were not enough, conflicting interests and sympathies created further disunion.

So it was easy for "the foreign power" to divide the Danube Basin and to conquer it. The problem facing post-war Europe will be one of maintaining stability; it must not be settled by force, for "Europe is ripe for more generous ideas." That which is needed is, the "teaching of Jesus, and not the aggressive spirit of Caesar."

Cosmos Hears I.L.O. Official

Another illustration of this fact is that the totalitarians: Germany, Italy, and Japan have dropped out in recent years.

At the conference in N.Y.C. it was decided that the first and main thing was to win the war; that before the end of the present war reconstruction should be planned with its goal being social progress; that this will only be achieved through international co-operation. During the course of the conference, the workers' delegation presented a bill urging all free peoples to contribute to the utmost to aid Britain, Russia, China and their allies.

The I.L.O. had been entirely cut off in Geneva surrounded by conquered Europe. At Canada's invitation they are now here on University street, though greatly reduced in size. They will shortly petition the Governments for financial aid.

First Round Begins in Chess Club Tournament

The draw for the first round of the chess club tournament is as follows: R. Ayoub vs. J. Eaton; T. Pavlasek vs. W. Monro; R. Assaly vs. M. Rossy; A. Singer (F.I. 9258) vs. T. Hardwick (D.E. 5238); M. MacDowall (P.L. 1158) vs. B. Mendel (D.O. 6555); T. Bishop (B.E. 2885) vs. A. Stalker (E.L. 0615); R. G. Rea vs. R. Druckman (C.R. 5400).

The following players have byes in the first round: J. Gilbert, M. Gerst, S. Melamed, H. Angel, M. Dion, J. Atkinson, W. Mahabir, H. Smart and E. Kender.

The results of all games, best of three in each case, must be left at the Union Tuck Shop not later than noon on Wednesday, December 10th.

the organization of an international police force with which to enforce international law.

The occasion was a mass rally at the Mount Royal Hotel sponsored by the C.C.F. Party. A capacity crowd filled the main ballroom to hear Mr. Coldwell and Angus MacInnes, M.P., and second-ranking

C.C.F. member, who spoke earlier. While Mr. Coldwell told of his experiences in England, Mr. MacInnes concentrated on the domestic scene, and roundly took to task the Liberal government for its lack of social objective for the war, for its partiality towards Big-Business, and for its indifference to Canada's organized labour groups. "Labour, instead of being made the servant, should be made the partner in the war effort," he said.

Dr. J. Stanley Allen, City Councillor, Professor at Sir George Williams, and one of the leading members of the Quebec branch of the C.C.F. Party, was in the chair. Many outstanding Montrealeers were present, and a good many McGill undergraduates were to be observed among the audience.

New Collection Given Redpath

S. M. Baylis Leaves Books On Shakespeare

A collection of over three hundred works by and about Shakespeare and his time constitutes the bequest of the late Mr. Samuel Baylis to McGill University. The gift was accepted by the Governors of the University, and the volumes are on their way to the Redpath Library.

Several valuable first editions and early facsimiles of quartos of Shakespeare's plays are included in the collection. There are various works on Shakespeare, his age, and his contemporaries in the group, many of which are difficult to obtain, and were procured only after diligent search on the part of Mr. Baylis.

The works of Sir Francis Bacon and a great many philo-Baconian Shakespeare commentaries, which uphold the theory that the works attributed to William Shakespeare were in reality the work of Bacon, form an important part of the collection. Mr. Baylis was particularly interested in the various phases of literary questions surrounding Shakespeare's work, and is reputed to have given credence to the theory of Baconian authorship. Some of the rarer works of the author are among the books in the collection and contribute toward making it extremely valuable.

Mr. Baylis was a student of literature in all its forms, and was at one time President of the St. James Literary Society. He was constantly associated with the society over a long period of years, and his interest in literature is attested to by the reputation of his private library, which was considered excellent. Mr. Baylis died last July 12.

The bequest which includes the donation of the collection of books to the library also makes provision for essay prizes to be awarded in contests for undergraduates of the University. The essays written would deal with some phase of the literature contained in the bequest.

NYU Trumpets Against McGill In Debate

duction were among these advantages. Regarding his last point, Delvin gave as his example the remarkable increase in production which has taken place in Canada since her entrance into the war. Delvin also added that an immediate declaration of war would mean a clean-cut policy for the U.S.A. and that the American army would cease to suffer from the lack of purpose and uncertainty which impedes it at the present time. The United States and Britain would also produce a united front against Japan.

The last of the debaters to speak was Stanley Marshall of N.Y.U., who after stating that Americans stood behind Britain in her fight against Hitler, discussed the thought of the American people concerning the war. He brought out the point that Americans could not be browbeaten into a declaration of war, and that in their own good time when they saw that the moment had arrived for war, they would declare it.

America Approaching War

Marshall stated that labour, which constituted 95% of the population of the U.S.A., could not be told what to do. That slowly but surely, Americans were approaching war as could be seen by the Repeal of the Neutrality Act, the Lend-Lease Bill and the allowing of merchant ships to enter war-zones, but that they could not be hurried. "Japan," he said, "is going to make concessions and the present conferences in Washington may mean that those concessions will be made by peaceful means, while a declaration of war would mean an immediate hardening of the Japanese attitude towards the U.S. In closing he said, "An American will give you all he's got, but let him give it to you in his own American way." Time was then allowed for rebut-

Annual Photographs

At the last report the following had not yet had their pictures taken for the Annual. These must be taken by tomorrow, and the Annual Board gives no guarantee that any graduating student whose picture is still missing by that time will be included in "Old McGill," 1942.

Pictures will be taken by Jacoby Studios, 1541 Crescent Street, at any time during regular business hours without appointment, and special appointments, if necessary, may be made by phoning PL. 1075.

The price, $2.25 (or $2.75 if a finished portrait is desired), is payable at time of sitting.

Following which the judges retired to make their decision and the floor was left open for questions and remarks from the audience.

The Judges, who included Mr. Leslie Buzzell, C.A., Prof. J. P. Day and Mr. H. J. Roast decided by a narrow margin in favour of the students of New York University. Mr. Roast summed up the decision of the judges by complimenting the personality of Marshall, the all-round delivery of Delvin, the factual information of Imberman and the effective rebuttal of Stalker.
